Death Toll In German Mine Explosion Increases

$27,000 IN SCHOOL WORK ORDERED

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

This all goes to show what an imagination will do unless it is closely watched:

* * * *

It is remarkable how some of the streets in Richmond got their names, according to what the Old Settler tells us. We are passing these on for what they are worth:

* * * *

Macdonald avenue got itst name from a man by the name of Jones who used to stand in front of the First National Bank telling Scotch stories to friends. It seems that the hero of each of these stories would be a Scot by the name of Macdonald. And before long the avenue was named Macdonald.

* * * *

Nevin avenue got its name from an expression uttered by a man waiting for his wife at Tenth street and what is now Nevin avenue. He waited two hours, then three hours then finally he spoke up, "Never Again." For many years the avenue was known as Never Again avenue. Common usage of the name, however, has cut the "er" off of never and the "aga" off of again and today we have Nevin avenue.

* * * *

Barrett avenue got its name from an ignorant youth, who when he saw a man going down the avenue wearing a beret, he shouted, "Oh, looka the barrett." From that time on the avenue was known as Barrett.

* * * *

Espee avenue was named when a youth in grammar school had a hard time to spell Southern Pacific. It seems that the lad had been reading the Literary Digest for some time and their shortened spelling went to his brain. As a result he handed in a test paper with Southern Pacific avenue spelled Espee. Since that time the avenue has been known as that.

* * * *

Virginia avenue got its name from a man by the name of Smith, whose initials were F. F. V. They called him "First Family of Virginia" so long that when he died they named the avenue Virginia in his honor.

* * * *

There is no doubt as ta how Maine avenue got its name . . . "Fill the steins for deah old Maine . . . tum te tum te tum . . ."

* * * *

Battery street had its inception during a fist fight on the street that ended in charges of battery being filed against a number of the participants.

* * * *

Essex avenue got its name from a man who drove a car of the same name.

* * * *

And Elgin avenue was named for a man who dropped his new watch in the middle of the street and broke it.

* * * *

A solution for the used razor blade problem has been found. The best thing to do is to take the used blades to one of these street corner merchants who re-sharpen old blades and then forget to call for them.

Plans for the addition were approved by the Elementary School board at a meeting in Superintendent of School W. T. Helm's office last evening. Approximate cost of the improvement is said to be $25,000.

Members of the board who attended the meeting and approved the two projects were J. O. Ford, president; R. M. Slattery, Homer W. Patterson and W. T. Helms, clerk.

185 MINERS ENTOMBED IN DEATH TRAP

AACHEN, GERMANY, Oct. 21.—UP—Several hundred men were entombed far below ground in the Wilhelm Coal mine today in an explosion that killed scores and injured nearly 100 workers.

The official death list reached 100 as rescue workers fought desperately to reach the miners believed still trapped 1,400 feet beneath the surface. Fear grew that many of the men still entombed were dead.

The official casualty list, announced after a muster of miners gave the following figures:

Known dead, 100.

Missing (entombed or dead), 185.

Rescued alive, 382.

Total, 667.

The rescued include 75 injured.

Rescue Work

Rescue workers had been able to penetrate only to a depth of about 1,100 feet as darkness fell over the distrait mining community. They had, during a frantic day at the torn and twisted pits been able, however, to provide the trapped men with food.

More important at the moment, they had been able also to pump air into the gas-filled seams, and officials held hope of saving them. The hope was faint, however.

There were fears during the day that hundreds had died in the teriffic explosion, which occurred this morning, when 2,000 miners were going down in the pits for the day's labor.

Many Men

The official muster showed that only 667 men had descended into the Wilhelm pit of the Anna mines, and that 382 of these had

COL. WOODS WILL HEAD BOARD

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—UP—President Hoover's unemployment committee was pledged today to prevent individual suffering this winter as it inaugurated its campaign to create jobs. The White House estimated 3,500,000 persons were idle.

Col. Arthur Wods, former New York police commissioner and executive in previous unemployment endeavors, was asked by President Hoover to develop an organization to handle the unemployment problem. Woods will arrive tomorrow.

After Hoover met with his cabinet committee and Governor Meyer of the Federal Reserve board today, it was announced the drought and unemployment relief programs would be co-ordinated There was every indication the latter would be handled as far as possible by local organizations. But emphasis was placed upon community responsibility requiring cooperation between municipal, state and federal agencies.

Creation of jobs by staggering hours of labor already had official attention. Secretary of War Hurley said he was prepared to inaugurate three day working weeks on flood control projects in order to double the number of employes, if so drastic action were necessary. He said hours already had been staggered to a lesser extent on the Mississippi [illegible] St. Louis, Secretary of Com-

Felons Fish For Liquor In Prison

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Oct. 21.—The prisoners' song, as warbled by the inmates of the county jail, was suspiciously loud and merry to the critical ears of Sheriff George D. Morrison.

He investigated and found that his charges were fishing where there were no fish, no water and no bait, but they were enjoying successful "catches."

Loose flooring in one cell room permitted the dropping of a fishing pole, consisting of a broom handle and a twisted bed spring to the cellar where contraband liquor seized in raids was stored.

BEARS PREPARE FOR HUSKY GAME

BERKELEY, Oct. 21.—Regulars of the University of California football team who have been resting since their strenuous battle with St. Marys over a week ago, yesterday began intensive preparations to face the University of Washington eleven at Seattle next Saturday.

Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price has but three days to whip his battered team into shape to meet the Huskies, for the Golden Bears will entrain for the north Wednesday evening after practice.

The Bears have come through four of the toughest games to be found anywhere on the Pacific coast during the first half of the football season. Price used his 'B' varsity last Saturday in order to give his regulars plenty of rest before their critical game with the Huskies. Inasmuch as the Bears have already dropped one conference game to Washington State they must bring home a victory from Seattle if they are to remain even in the background of the conference picture.

Three complete teams with a few substitutes to spare will leave Berkeley Wednesday evening on the Cascade Limited, arriving in the northern city Thursday evening. A short workout Friday afternoon at the Huskies' home field will complete preparations for the game.

The Bears' hopes for victory in the north have been considerably raised by the probability that Hank Schaldach, most colorful backfield man on the roster, will be back in the lineup. The versatile Bear, who boasts a fourth threat, — accurate drop-kicking— in addition to the usual three, sustained a slight concussion of the brain in the St. Mary's game, but a week of rest has left him little affected by the injury.

The other Bear regulars are shaking off the effects of injuries suffered during the first three hard battles on the schedule, and it appears that Price will be able to start a team entirely composed of regulars—something that has not been possible since the Washington State game early this month.

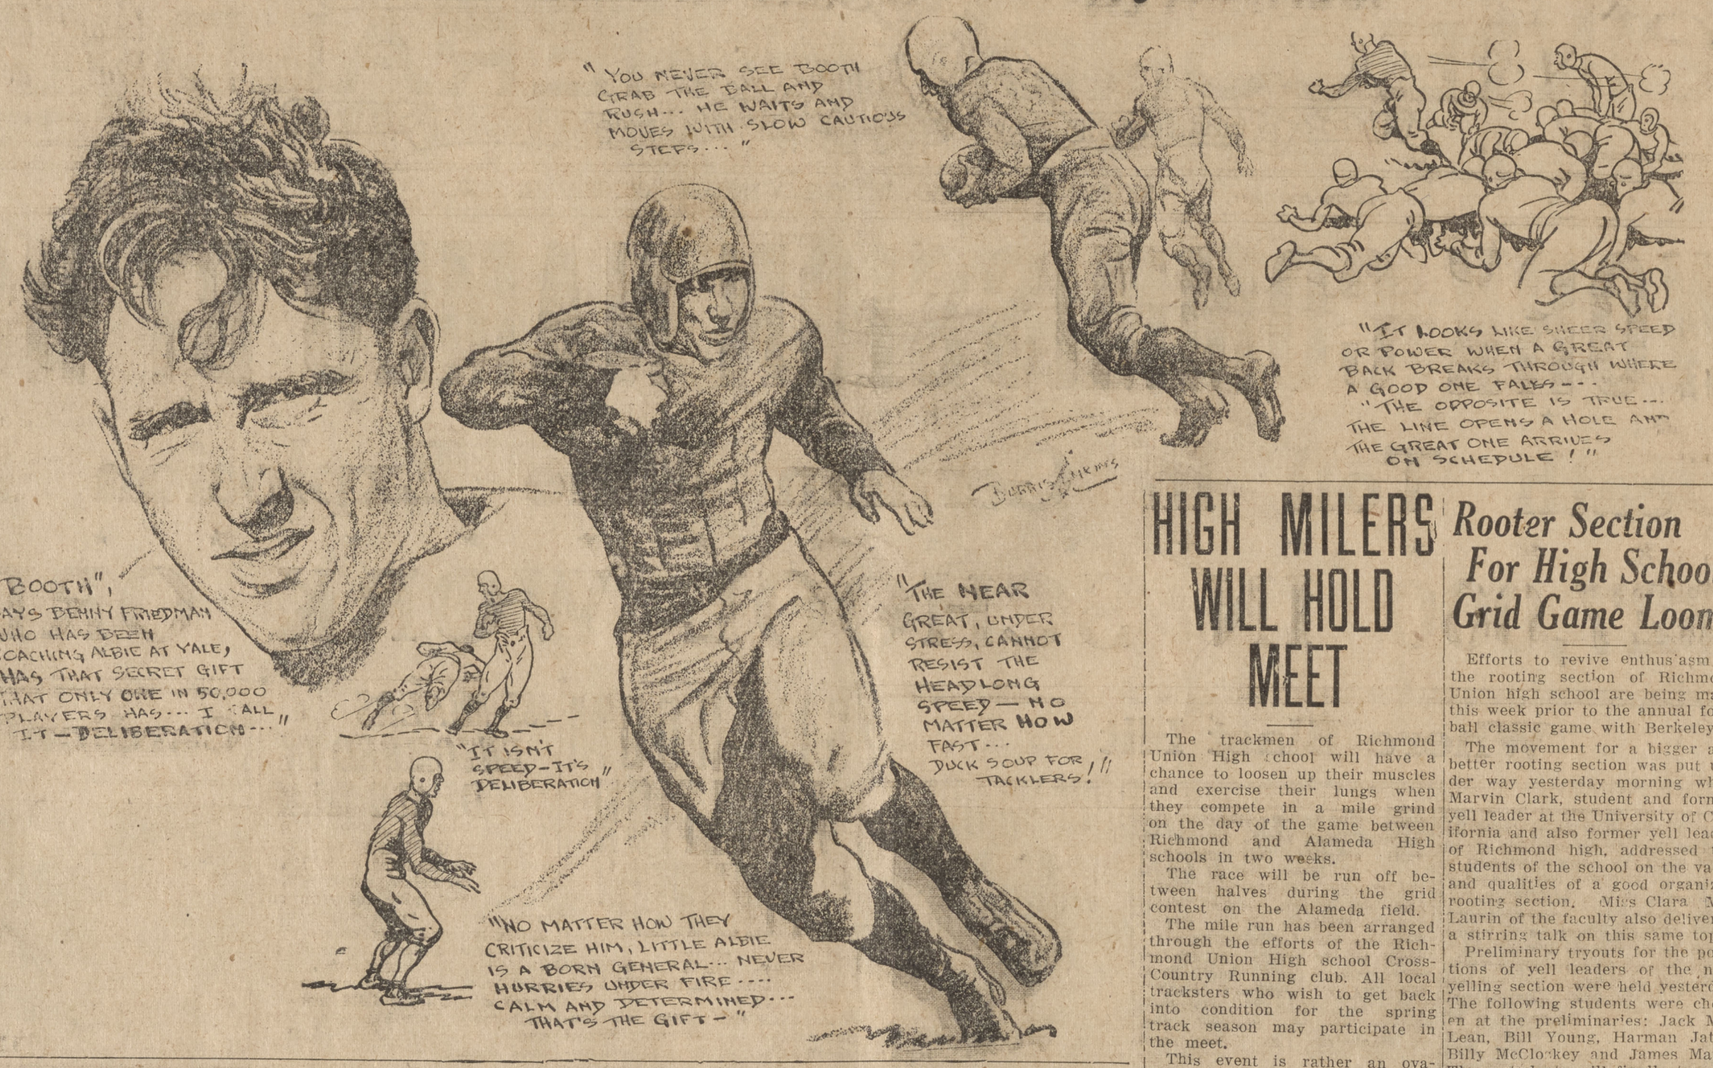
The Bears and the Huskies played their first game over a quarter of a century ago, and have played 15 games since 1915. The 1915 game marked California's return to the American game during a "strange interlude" when California and Stanford were not on speaking terms due to differences of opinion concerning the eligibility of freshmen. The annual California-Stanford "Big Game" was temporarily suspended and the two California-Washington games played in 1915, one in Berkeley and the other in Seattle, were substituted.

In the first game, incidentally, California was soundly trounced 72 to 0, the worst beating ever taken by the Golden Bear football team.

From 1915 on, California has won six games from the Huskies; Washington has won eight games, and one contest—1924—ended in a 7 to 7 tie. Since 1923 the margin of victory for either team has not been greater than one touchdown.

BOOTH AND THE GRIDIRON "IT"

By Burris Jenkins Jr.



"YOU NEVER SEE BOOTH GRAB THE BALL AND RUSH... HE WAITS AND MOVES WITH SLOW CAUTIOUS STEPS..."
"BOOTH", SAYS BENNY FRIEDMAN WHO HAS BEEN COACHING ALBIE AT YALE, "HAS THAT SECRET GIFT THAT ONLY ONE IN 50,000 PLAYERS HAS... I CALL IT—DELIBERATION..."
"IT ISN'T SPEED—IT'S DELIBERATION"
"NO MATTER HOW THEY CRITICIZE HIM, LITTLE ALBIE IS A BORN GENERAL... NEVER HURRIES UNDER FIRE.... CALM AND DETERMINED... THAT'S THE GIFT—"
"THE NEAR GREAT, UNDER STRESS, CANNOT RESIST THE HEADLONG SPEED—NO MATTER HOW FAST... DUCK SOUP FOR TACKLERS!"
"IT LOOKS LIKE SHEER SPEED OR POWER WHEN A GREAT BACK BREAKS THROUGH WHERE A GOOD ONE FAILS... "THE OPPOSITE IS TRUE... THE LINE OPENS A HOLE AND THE GREAT ONE ARRIVES ON SCHEDULE!"

HIGH MILERS WILL HOLD MEET

The trackmen of Richmond Union High school will have a chance to loosen up their muscles and exercise their lungs when they compete in a mile grind on the day of the game between Richmond and Alameda High schools in two weeks.

The race will be run off between halves during the grid contest on the Alameda field.

The mile run has been arranged through the efforts of the Richmond Union High school Cross-Country Running club. All local tracksters who wish to get back into condition for the spring track season may participate in the meet.

This event is rather an ovation in eastbay athletics, and should attract much interest throughout this section. The idea has already attracted the students of San Rafael Military academy, who wish to compete in such a meet with Richmond Union High school. A pre-season track meet may also be arranged with Piedmont High school.

Rooter Section For High School Grid Game Looms

Efforts to revive enthusiasm in the rooting section of Richmond Union high school are being made this week prior to the annual football classic game with Berkeley.

The movement for a bigger and better rooting section was put under way yesterday morning when Marvin Clark, student and former yell leader at the University of California and also former yell leader of Richmond high, addressed the students of the school on the value and qualities of a good organized rooting section. Miss Clara McLaurin of the faculty also delivered a stirring talk on this same topic.

Preliminary tryouts for the positions of yell leaders of the new yelling section were held yesterday. The following students were chosen at the preliminaries: Jack McLean, Bill Young, Harman Jatta, Billy McCloskey and James Mark. These students will finally try out at the meeting of the Students association this morning. Three leaders will be chosen from the group by the commissioners of the school.

CARDS PREPARE FOR TROJAN CONTEST

PALO ALTO, Oct. 21.—UP—The public has had its last glimpse of the Stanford football team until it goes into action against the university of Southern California Saturday.

Coach 'Pop' Warner announced tonight that another hard practice session was in store for his athletes Wednesday afternoon and again the gates would be barred to everyone except players and coaches. After a light signal drill Thursday the team will go into complete seclusion until game time.

Warner appeared tired after the workout this afternoon. He was not entirely pleased with the showing of the Cardinals last week-end when they nosed out Oregon State, 13 to 7, two touchdowns less than Southern California's margin of victory over the Beavers.

It was true that Stanford only used formation 'C' against Oregon State while formation 'A' is the basis of their most powerful plays. Warner believed, however, that even with formation 'C' his scroe should have been higher. With these two formations as a foundation, Warner has given his team more than 50 plays to learn.

In the contest Saturday Phil Neill and Bill Doub are expected to start at ends. If Captain Ray Tandy's injury prevents him from going in at right tackle 'Chuck' Ehrhorn is capable in that place. The other tackle will probably be Dick Bogue. Leading candidates to start as guards are Bill Bardin and 'Red' Hand. Perry Taylor has cinched center position.

The opening backfield combination is expected to be Harry Hillman at quarter, Harlow Rothert at full, Phil Moffatt, the star, at left half, and Guido Caglieri, at right half.

GRID GAMES ON SATURDAY TO BE FAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—UP—With Saturday's football map bottled with high ranking games, the task of naming the outstanding contests is a simple one—as simple, for example as explaining the theory of relativity in five words.

The easiest way out, it would seem, would be to name the games throwing together unbeaten and untied teams, and let it go at that. By that method Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh, Alabama vs. Vanderbilt and Fordham vs. New York University would get the call for these six teams should provide all the football necessary for top rating.

The remained of Saturday's schedule shows one great game after another.

In the east, Army, unbeaten and unscored on, tackles a Yale team that is just now reaching top form. Army, boasting a win over powerful Harvard, has its eyes set on a national championship and Yale with its Booth faces no simple task in stopping the cadets.

Dartmouth, also undefeated and unscored on, plays Harvard at Cambridge. Other eastern headliners are Temple and Vilanova, Holy Cross and Brown, Gettysburg and Bucknell, and Penn State and Colgate.

Alabama and Vanderbilt overshadow all other southern engagements but there is plenty of interest in Georgia Tech's meeting with Tulane; unbeaten Georgia's date with up and coming Auburn; Kentucky vs. Virginia, and Tennessee's meeting with North Carolina.

In the far west, Stanford and the University of Southern California meet in their annual classic. Stanford's tie with Minnesota, and Southern California's defeat by Washington State cannot dim the interest in the clash between these two old rivals.

Other coast games are Washington State vs. Montana; Oregon State vs. Pacific University, and Oregon vs. Idaho.

Michigan plays Illinois in the stand-out game for the middle west. Chicago vs. Mississippi, Kansas vs. Iowa State, Michigan State vs. Case and Northwestern vs. Centre, are other middle western contests.

Young Strib Will Battle K. O. Christner

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—UP—Young Stribling, the boy who made good both in the country and the city, makes his first appearance in the Metropolitan district for several years Thursday night when he meets K. O. Christner, of Akron, O., in a ten-round bout at Newark, N. J.

The fact that Christner as a fighter is considered an extraordinarily fine rubber peddler and should provide the Georgian with little more than exercise, does not mean that the fight is just another one of Striblings one-night stands. In fact, just the opposite is true,, for Stribling, ballyhooed to the skies since his knockout victories over Otto Von Poran and Phil Scott, must prove to the East that he is another fellow altogether from the chap who staged such dreary affairs with Berlenbach, Sharkey, et al.

It's no secret that eastern fight fans and critics, especially New Yorkers, have a cordial and heart-warming dislike for Stribling. Since his losing fight with Berlenbach here years ago, many unkind things have been said and written about the southener's penchant for holdings, stalling, wrestling and lack of aggressiveness.

If Stribling comes out fighting as he did against Von Porat in Chicago and Scott in London, and goes on to win by a knockout, eastern fight fans will come pretty near to forgiving all. The fans have always conceded the Georgian's ability to box with the best of them—what they want to see Thursday night is a fearless Stribling who wades in and hits and takes it without flinching.

If the fight Thursday doesn't draw a good house it won't be Stribling's fault. He piloted his airplane into Newark in full view of the populace and later went up into the clouds to sign the papers for the fight.

BRAZIL REBEL LEADER SEES SUCCESS

(Copyright 1930 by United Press)

PONTA GROSSA, Parana State, Brazil, Oct. 21.—UP—Dr. Getulio Vargas, head of the Brazilian rebellion, in the first interview granted a foreign correspondent since the outbreak of hostilities Oct. 3, declared today the revolt was proceeding more rapidly than he had anticipated.

He expressed optimism for the success of the revolution, which is seeking to overthrow the government of President Washington Luis and prevent the inauguration next month of President-Elect Julio Prestes.

Dr. Vargas was the defeated candidate in the national presidential elections against Dr. Prestes. He said the revolutionary armies at the front along the Sao Paulo-Parana state border were composed of veterans. He denied the revolt leaders were forcing men to serve in the rebel military forces, scouting the idea as anti-rebel propaganda.

The revolutionists are leaving younger volunteers at training camps in the south, Dr. Vargas said, to undergo a thorough course in military instruction.

Asked if the revolutionists feared federalist aerial attacks—the government forces are reputed to have strong fighting air units—Dr. Vargas replied:

"We are in a position not only to repel such attacks, but to make strong counter-attacks in the air."

Dr. Vargas charged the administration at Rio de Janeiro with corruption in winning the last election, and declared the Brazilian people no longer intended to permit what the rebels term a small group of politicians to rule by virtue of their political machine. These charges are denied by the federalists who in turn charge corruption among the revolutionists. With neither side willing to retract, the rebels resorted to force, and the present military movement amounting to civil war is in progress.

Dr. Vargas was wildly welcomed when the train reached Ponta Grossa today. The populace had turned out, with bands playing and women showering bonquets of flowers on the military leaders.

Richmond Dog Gains Fame

"Rex" German shepherd, owned by R. H. Hendrick of Richmond, has become a national figure in dogdom. In fact, Rex, along with the nation's other heroic and devoted animals, is eligible for a gold medal, awarded semi-annually by the Spratt's Dog Hero Foundation in New York City, according to word received here today.

Rex, according to certified reports before the award committee, is an "accomplished life saver." Trained to retrieve swimmers who find themselves in difficulty, Rex has frequently shown his courage and skill in rescue tests and while he has never had a genuine emergency call, his bravery and intelligence demonstrated so often in his tests has definitely established his status as a courageous and loyal dog. The gold medal is awarded on these two points and the next award to some deserving dog will be made on January 1.

By his acts the faithful dog makes a bid for lasting honor in the "hall of canine immortals" and his deeds go into the national records of the Spratt's Dog Hero Award Foundation along with past medal winners and those dogs whose acts of courage and devotion earned them a place of honor in the Foundation's "dog roll."

"Rex" has been trained by Kendrick to rescue persons from the water. The dog is also an accomplished high and fancy diver and excells in swimming.

The dog is about four years old.

Husband Slays Family Of Five; Then Kills Self

WASHBURN, Oct. 21.—UP — Washburn's veteran assistant postmaster, George Froseth, crushed the skulls of his wife and four children today with a carpenter's hammer, assured himself that all were dead and then committed suicide.

He apparently attacked his family while its members were asleep. Bodies of his wife, Edith, his daughter Adelaide, 9, and sons, James 6 and Neal, 12, were found in their beds.

Another son, George Jr., woke when his father approached, attempted to flee and was killed with the same hammer in the kitchen. The bodies indicated that Froseth had examined them to make sure they were lifeless before he shot himself to death.

He had worked here in the post-office for the last 20 years. Associates said he imagined that he wa sill despite assurance of physicians that his health was excellent."

BORIS WEDDING PLANS ARE MADE

ASSISI, Italy, Oct. 21. —UP— Communal valets wearing the picturesque costumes of the 14th century will act as a guard of honor outside the lower church at the wedding of Princess Giovanna of Italy and King Boris of Bulgaria next Saturday morning.

The valets will sound a military call to attention, using silver trumpets, after which they will play a hymn as the royal wedding party marches in regal procession into the church.

These plans were made public at Assisi today, where dignitaries and other officials are hurrying preparations for the royal wedding. The little mountain village which was the home of St. Francis, the monk of mediaeval times, is busy with plans for the reception of the royal guests.

The custodian of the Franciscans will receive the party at the doors of the church. Inside 300 Assisi children will cast white roses in the path of Princess Giovanna, on the bride's way to the altar.

Around the steps of the Altar 200 Franciscan Friars will recite prayers during the services. Eight communal valets will stand at one side of the altar during the ceremony, and sound the call to attention at the opening of the mass, then repeat the hymn of Assisi.

When King Boris, the bridegroom, arrives at the railroad station he will be officially greeted by the nation's highest officials. Both royal trains will arrive from San Rossore, the Italian royal villa, shortly after Friday midnight.

GIRLS PREPARE WEDDING DRESS

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 21. —UP— Fifty girls were busy here today working on the trosseau for Princess Giovanna, who will be married at Assisi Saturday to King Boris of Bulgaria.

The girls have been working for a month, executing various fine styles in Italian lace and embroidery.

Mrs. Bryant gave several dramatic readings as the guest artist of the evening. The entire affair was in the spirit of Hallowe'en season.

Next week the meeting will be held in the home of Eleanore Galbraith, 566 Eleventh street. Marjorie Whittlesey will arrange the program for the meeting.

Two Killed In Train, Car Crash

SAN ANSELMO, Oct. 21.—UP— A Northwestern Pacific Electric train crashed into a taxicab near here today, instantly killing the driver, James Maloney, 50, and his woman passenger Mrs. Louise Sutton, 35, of Fairfax.

The force of the collision hurled the taxi 300 feet onto the third electric rail which powers the trains, and the machine burst into flames.

"BUGS" MORAN PLACED UNDER ARREST

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—UP—George "Bugs" Moran, notorious gangster chief, who shipped his furniture to Minnesota immediately after the assassination of Reporter Alfred "Jake" Lingle last June, and dropped out of sight, came back today under guard of a detective squad.

The affable, over-sized gangster, ranked by the Chicago crime commission as third among the 23 "public enemies," was fingerprinted, photographed and questioned, an experience which apparently did not annoy him. He has served three prison sentences and each time went through the same process.

Moran's arrest early today at Antioch, Ill., was brought about by police information gained from spies among the gangsters. This information was that Moran came back from Minnesota to negotiate a "peace treaty" with "Scarface" Al Capone that would place him back in charge of the "North Side mob."

As leader of the gunmen on the north side, Moran for the last three years was regarded as Capone's chief rival for domination of the beer and liquor rackets. Only Capone and his brother Ralph "Bottles" Capone, were ranked above Moran in importance by the crime commission.

Six detectives were in hiding outside a resort near Antioch when Moran, attired in hunting regalia, drove up last night. They remained in hiding for four hours before entering the building, guns in each hand, and awakened the gangster Moran had a pistol under a pillow but offered no resistance.

Moran told the court that he was a "businessman" and said his interest in a cleaning and dyeing plant in Chicago netted him an income of $25,000 a year. He came to Antioch, he said, to do some "duck hunting."

"Who killed Lingle? who killed Jack Zuta? Santa Claus, I'd say. The coppers know I didn't have a thing to do with either job. I was up in the middle of Canada hunting when both jobs were pulled," Moran said.

Heavy Fog Forces Plane To Land Here

MEXICO AIDS IN ROUNDUP OF REDS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 21.—UP— President Ortiz Rubio announced tonight that Mexico was cooperating with the United States government's efforts to restrict communistic activities by supplying Washington with complete information of all communistic activities here.

The president told the press that included in documents sent to Washington were those seized from Mark Lulinsky, Mexico City representative of Amtorg Trading company who was arrested here shortly after Mexico severed diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union. Lulinsky was deported.

Ortiz Rubio declared he believed communism to be a serious, world-wide problem.

The president expressed himself on several other problems of national and international importance. The agreement on Mexico's finances and railroads reached last summer at a conference in New York and known as the Lamont-Montes de Oca agreement will be submitted to congress within a few days, he said. He asserted confidence in its ratification.

Early increases are planned in the Mexican tariff of many luxuries in order to improve the country's economic situation, the president said. He declared the government was able to do little to improve business here until world conditions improve.

Ortiz Rubio reiteraeed recent statements that the political situation in Mexico is tranquil, declaring that last week's uprising in the vicinity of San Carlos, Chiapas state, was purely a local affair against the governor as dispatches had indicated.

Arizona State Train Law Hit By Rail Roads

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—UP— Officials of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads were called as witnesses here today as the Santa Fe railroad continued presentation of evidence in an attempt to substantiate its claim that the Arizona train limit law is unconstitutional.

E. J. Morrison, Phoenix attorney who was appointed by Circuit Judge Curtis D. Wilbur and District Judges A. F. St. Sure and F. C. Jacobs as master in chancery to decide the issue, heard B. O. Johnson, assistant to the vice-president in charge of operations of the Northern Pacific and F. J. Gavin, general manager of the Great Northern.

They testified that more efficiency can be reached by operating trains longer than 70 cars, the limitation fixed by the Arizona law, and use of more powerful engines.

Throughout cross - examination assistants of the Arizona attorney-general have based their defense of the law on the supposition that it is a police power of the state to limit trains for safety of the people.

The Santa Fe is expected to close its case in several days and the Southern Pacific will then call witnesses.

Mooseheart To Hold Birthday Fete Tonight

RUDY ESTATE FIGHT IS SEEN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—UP— A court fight over the management of the estate of Rudolph Valentino appeared certain today more than four years after his death.

It was learned that attempts at a settlement between George Ullman, executor of the estate and Valentino's brother and sister had failed.

The latter, Maria G. Strada and Alberto Guglielmi, recently filed charges of attempted fraud, mismanagement and wrongful direction of estate funds against Ullman.

In reply, Ullman, who was the star's manager during his screen career, said that the estate was "flat broke" and greatly involved when he assumed his duties of executor. He claimed that only his ingenuity had brought it to its present worth. The trouble over the executorship began when Ullman filed claim for his fee.

As an example of his efforts in behalf of the estate, Ullman declared that personal effects, curios and other property with a market value of only $16,000 had been sold at auction for $97,000 and interest in films featuring the star had been exploited after his death with a net return of $375,000. Ullman admitted that he had put book plates in many books to sell them.

Back from northern Ontario, William D. Burden and William C. Chanler have brought a stirring story in motion pictures of the life of the Ojibway Indians as they were before the advent of the white men. Not only is the picture a realistic picture of Indian life, it is a romantic story filled with the thrills, love customs, dangers and interesting superstitions of the first inhabitants of the American continent. The picture is called "The Silent Enemy."

The story is so much more than the customary travel picture made in the wilderness, in its dramatic narrative of the struggle of a primitive people to survive, that it was taken over by Paramount. It will show at the Fox-California Theater today only.

"We felt there was a field for a truthful picture of primitive Indian life," said Burden in an interview for The Christian Science Monitor. "All other films about the Indians have projected, not the aborigines, but the white man's notion of them, further removed from actuality by using standardized Hollywood story patterns.

"In 'The Silent Enemy' we have pictured a tribe of Ojibways in one of the years when food was scarce. Everything in the picture is true to life and history of the tribe. Every night we would gather with the leaders of the Indians and the older men of the company and talk over the events that were to be photographed next day. Thus the story was essentially written by the Indians themselves."

Also on the program is a talking dog comedy entitled "College Hounds."

NEW SUIT IN TERMINAL ROW

An amended complaint filed in San Francisco Superior Court by Richmond Terminal Corporation against the City of Richmond, Parr Terminal company and city officials revived the four year old argument yesterday. This is the second amended suit to be filed by the Terminal concern. Two previous suits have been thrown out of court on demurrers filed by the defendants.

The Richmond Terminal corporation in its suit is asking $100,000 for alleged loss of business when it was ousted from the municipal terminal's outer harbor in November, 1926. In this complaint the Terminal corporation seeks to set up the claimthat the City of Richmond and Parr Terminal corporation conspired to oust it, and that the 50 year lease given by the city to Parr Terminal is illegal.

Thos. M. Carlson, announced yesterday that he would file a demurrer to the suit.

In the previous suits at one time the case was carried to the Supreme court when the city of Richmond and Parr asked for a change of venue. The request was denied by the high court.

The second amended complaint eliminates the names of John I. Collins, Frank Scholes and E. J. Garrard, former councilmen, who have died since the filing of the first suit Capt. E. V. Shirley of the Richmond police force who is also dead is still retained on the plaintiffs list.

A WANT AD IN THE RECORD-HERALD WILL DO THE WORK

PRODUCER OF BROADWAY 'TRAITOR'

Those isolated souls whose loyalty is to the theater may point the finger at Laurence Schwab, one of showdom's biggest lights, now that he has forsaken his Brodway fame, built up by such tremendously successful hits as "Good News" "The Desert Song" "New Moon" and "Follow Thru" for the newer fame of the cinemas.

"Traitor," they may call Laurence Schwab, but Schwab sees a good reason for deserting Broadway.

"Since leaving college, I have been in no other business but the theater," says the stage producer, member of the producing team of Schwab and Mandel, in a signed article in Variety,' the organ of theater opinion, "and I love it. Years ago, when silent pictures were flourishing, Jesse Lasky offered me a good job. I rejected it. During the last few years, my partner, Frank Mandel, and myself have had great success. We have produced five musical shows, all of more than hit proportions. We have never had a musical failure.

"Very recently I went on the road with a stage show, "Follow Thru," which we had produced with tremendous success in New York. It took more than two years for 'Follow Thru' to cover a few key cities of the country. Then I went to Hollywood to put 'Follow Thru' into talking moving pictures. Two weeks after the picture was released, 'Follow Thru' will be playing in Medicine Hat, Manitoba and Key West, with enough towns dotted in between to dirty up one of Mr. Rand and McNally's best United States maps.

"I found life in Hollywood and the procedure in production of pictures more interesting and more intelligently planned than that of the theater.

This picture opens tomorrow at the Fox-California Theater.

K. C. LODGES TO CENSOR FILMS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—UP—Appointment of a Catholic screen commission to represent the Knights of Columbus in a campaign against obscene and improper screen productions, stage plays and literature, which has endorsement of His Eminence Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York, will be made before the end of the month, it was announced here tonight.

Announcement was made by Harry W. McGowan, state deputy of the Knights of Columbus, who will make the appointments. He said he would select nationally-known dramatic, screen and art critics, educational and literary leaders.

Decision to wage the campaign was made at the closing session of the annual state conference after considerable discussion of the "censors" appointed by Will Hayes for the motion picture industry. It was claimed that Hayes' group only recommended pictures and failed to comment about those that could not be approved.

McGowan said he expected screen reviews of the Catholic Screen commission would reach more than one half the population of the United States and Canada.

The commission will issue frequent releases to the Catholic press to churches, schools and societies, and over the radio, and also to publications of other denominations and the general press, it was said.

These reviews will list pictures as "recommended" or "not recommended" and will state briefly the commission approves or objects to the productions, and will give every picture a percentage rating, similar to the grading in public schools.

The announcement said the Knights of Columbus would urge a boycott, instead of censorship, as the most effective means of eliminating objectionable parts from the stage and screen.

McGowan said he hoped the commission would be able to start its work early next month. He said the Catholic Daughters of America would be invited to have one representative on the commission and he hoped to obtain critics from New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The Knights of Columbus organization in this state will let the New York organization lead the campaign against stage plays, having already started usch a move in affiliation with the Catholic Theater Guild, of which Cardinal Hayes is honorary president.

Plans for barring obscene literature and magazines from the mails, express and transportation companies will be announced in the near future, McGowan said.

NAVY DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Urging Richmond participation in Navy Day, the chamber of commerce called attention yesterday to the fact that this annual event will be held next Monday. It is under the direction of the Navy League of the United States which has secured the full co-operation of ships and navy yards for the occasion.

"The intent of Navy Day is to explain the past and present services of the navy to the nation and to point out the important place which the navy holds in the American plan of life," said a statement by the chamber of commerce. "This is brought about by bringing the people in close touch with the navy, showing them what the navy is doing now and what it may be expected to do in the future.

"Therefore the navy will hold open house on October 27 at which time ships at the navy yard will be open to visitors, and various displays will be made of the various departmental activities.

"Richmond people are urged by the Navy League and by the commandant's office at Mare Island to visit the ships and the yards and thus help to promote the personal contact with the navy."

Rear Admiral G. W. Laws, commandant at Mare Island, is in charge of arrangements.

MAN FOUND BURNED TO DEATH

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—With a chain about his neck and his body burned almost beyond recognition Achilles Alloggi, 65 retired cigar manufacturer of this city was found chained to a tree near Williams street bridge here today by two youths who had stopped in an automobile near the spot.

With the clothes of the man soaked with kerosene police were trying to learn whether Alloggi had first been shot and then burned or whether he had been a victim of a gang which burned him alive The wood on which the man's body was found was also soaked with kerosene.

Alloggi left his home, 660 South Fifteenth street at about 5:30 this morning, without telling any of his relatives where he was going, but it was supposed he was merely taking a stroll. Police investigation did not reveal any discrepancy in his business and he was in good health. He was not known to have any enemies.

An autopsy over the remains was to determine whether Alloggi was the victim of a shooting before he was burned.

The youths who discovered the man after they saw smoke coiling from the place near where they had parked were, Elmo Fair, and Joseph Pirazzi, 129 South Twenty-third street. They also found an empty gasoline can near the scene of the tragedy.

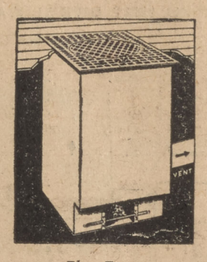
These cold days— how you'd love heat without bother or thought!

Natural Gas costs less to use

In the chemistry classes in high schools, the professors teach that all fuels must be gasified before they will burn. Coal and wood themselves do not burn—neither does oil. Heat applied to these fuels, such as a kindling fire, generates GAS—the only substance which burns. So why not buy just the gas in the first place. It costs less to use.

The "For Sale" or "For Rent" sign will come down quicker if a house is heated automatically with Natural Gas.

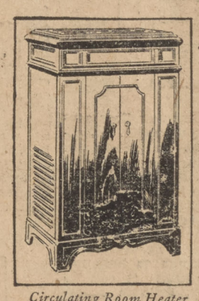
The Floor Furnace



Floor Furnace

If you desire clean heat in but one to three rooms, the Floor Furnace is ideal. No basement is necessary. These furnaces are made in several sizes and give quick, healthful circulating heat. All burnt gases go outdoors through a vent. Completely installed for $10.00 down and only $7.50 a month.

Circulating Room Heater



Circulating Room Heater

Another excellent method of heating is with the Circulating Room Heater. It heats one to four rooms. Its quick, healthful warmth reaches every cold corner. It is as good to look upon as a fine mahogany cabinet—will harmonize perfectly with your furnishings. Made in several sizes and designs. $5 down and $7.50 a month, completely installed.

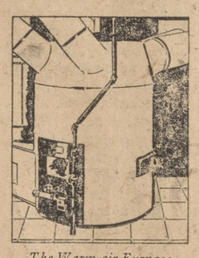
The Radiantfire

Banish the usual cleaning and muss that is associated with the fireplace—have a Radiantfire. Radiant heat warms you instantly. It's the same kind of warmth the sun sends down—clean, health-giving heat. Radiantfires are made in many sizes and designs to conform with any decorative scheme. We'll install one for $5.00 down.

Radiantfire

The Warm-air Furnace

For perfect heating for the entire home, there is no heating appliance that will do the job so well for such a small investment as will the Warm-air Furnace which is installed in your basement. It circulates clean heated air to every room. A Thermostat keeps the temperature uniform. All burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney without mingling with the warm-air which circulates in your home.



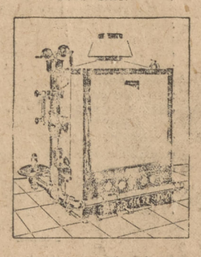
The Warm-air Furnace

Ask us or a heating dealer for a heating proposal. Very convenient terms can be arranged.

Steam Heat

Large hotels and apartment houses install the finest heating—Steam Heat with radiators in each room.

You can have this excellent heating for your own home whether it is large or small—thanks to Natural Gas.



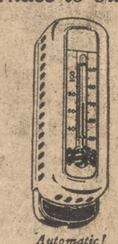
The Steam Boiler

Natural Gas lends itself more readily than any other fuel to easy and safe automatic control. No expensive automatic burner is necessary, no fireman is needed. A Thermostat located in your living room does all the watching and keeps your home uniformly warm.

Steam Heat is the finest heating for any home, flat, apartment house, or building. Ask us or a heating dealer for estimate.

Change your Present Furnace to burn Natural Gas

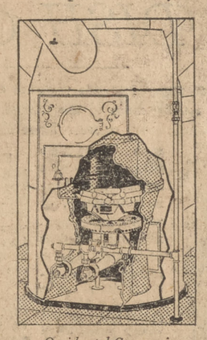
When you change your present furnace to burn Natural Gas you banish furnace drudgery. You have clean automatic heating in place of uncertain heating. And the beauty is—this automatic heating costs no more!



Automatic!

With a tiny lever on this Thermostat you start or stop your furnace or boiler. It automatically keeps your home at an even, perfect temperature.

We merely install the silent Occidental Conversion Burner in the firebox. It is perfectly safe and healthful. Burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney just as smoke does now. An automatic Thermostat controls the temperature in your home.



Occidental Conversion Burner

Total price of Occidental Conversion Burner installed in warm-air furnace, $110.00. Terms $10.00 down, $5.00 a month.

Change Circulating Room Heater to burn Natural Gas

Have all the usual warmth and comfort of your Circulating Room Heater without the trouble of building fires, or cleaning up afterwards. We'll change your heater to burn Natural Gas. You'll have instant heat and keep your home at a healthful, even temperature simply by regulating a handy valve. All burnt gases go outdoors through the chimney just as smoke does from your present fire.

Occidental Conversion Burner installed in Circulating Room Heater

THE SONG-MAKER

Ah, I was always singing,
And never made a song,
Until you came and broke my heart
And, careless, passed along.

Because you turned and left me
Without a backward look,
My singing ceased. And now my songs
Are in a scarlet book.

But the saddest part of a broken heart
Is that it's sure to mend;
And as my heart grew whole again
My songs came to an end.

And that is how I learned as true,
This most peculiar thing:
That songs are made by the sad of heart
For happy hearts to sing.

ESTHER VALCK GEORGNS

What Women Know That Men Don't

LADY NANCY ASTOR, first and still most distinguished woman member of the British Parliament,
Has just been made honorary doctor of laws
By the University of Birmingham
England, which from the beginning
Has given English girls equal opportunities with men.
In her speech of acceptance, wise and witty Lady Astor emphasized
An interesting point in the education of the sexes.
It isn't enough, she said, for women to know what men know—
But men also must, somehow acquire the superior wisdom of women.
Here is the idea in her own words:
"Hitherto the education of women has proceeded along the same lines as that of men.
"I feel that it is not enough that women should know only what men know,
"Because the wisdom of men smacks too much of the wisdom of this world.
"If some method of education could be evolved
"In which men could be taught what women know by instinct,
"We'd have peace on earth, good-will toward men."
But what, some doubting male inquires, do women know that men don't?
The answer, in one word, is, "PLENTY!"
A woman, from the age of five up, knows that—in the vernacular—
You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar;
You can, in other words, attain your objective more surely, and far more sweetly,
By being pleasant than by being pugnacious.
A woman knows, if she be a true woman, that the most important business in life
Is the business of life itself—
That love and marriage and parenthood are more vital
Than factory or shop or stocks.
If only, as Lady Astor says,
Men could be taught
What women know by the instinct of their loving hearts—
That falling in love with the right person
And making love a continuously growing tree, instead of a fading flower,
Is an achievement so much more important and necessary
Than making a great deal of money!
A sense of order in the home—
A feeling for beauty in decoration—
A fastidious taste in romance—
Here is wisdom with which many a woman is born,
And which cannot even be taught to many a man.
The infinite possibilities, the intricate refinements of tact
Are a dove-and-serpent branch of higher education
In which a woman often excels—
Even when she explains her tact to her husband—
Even when she coaches him as to how to show a little tact himself—
He frequently can't get the idea!
Not only the care and cherishing, but the supreme value of child life
Is a part of woman's instinctive wisdom—
How hard she has to labor to get it through the masculine head
Is known by every woman who has worked for better child labor laws,
Or more generous appropriations for the health, education and recreation of little children.
Finally, as Viscountess Astor implied in her Birmingham speech,
Most women know, in the depths of heart and brain,
That war is a wasteful, irrational, cruel anachronism—
That human bodies and brains and hearts must no longer be sacrificed to it—
That somehow a technique for peaceful settlement of international difficulties must be evolved—
Oh, yes, Woman the Peacemaker knows by instinct this truth—
If only, as Lady Astor says, men could be taught it by education!
"Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers," as Tennyson sang years ago,
The wisdom of women still lingers at the threshhold of the minds of men.

FRESHMAN

She's bought bright rouge and a new powder puff,
She's stocking up on cold creams and all that sort of stuff,
Sheerest hose does she wear—
Her heels are Spanish high—
There's brilliantine upon her hair,
Danger in her eye.
Necklaces, slave bracelets, dinner rings,
Pretty clothes—all the niftiest things—
Make her look the best she can—
'Cause she knows that college is the Making of a Man!

FREYA F. KANTER.

It Isn't the Initial Cost, It's the Upkeep

According to London beauty experts, makeup worth $2 is ruined every time a perfectly lipsticked lady is kissed. But there's nothing new in this discovery. In The Love Poems of Joannes Secundus, a sixteenth century Dutch poet, whose verse translated by F. A. Wright has just been published, we read of how a synthetic charmer named Lycoris is trying to increase her income—
"And there are reasons for it, you'll agree.
She has to spend the extra to replace
The damage done by lovers to her face.
Kiss her red mouth: the color straight is gone
That cost at least five shillings to put on."

Modernizing the Home — A Problem of the Small Rug

By Alma Zaiss

HERE SEVERAL SMALL RUGS ARE USED IN POSITIONS THAT GIVE REST AND UNITY TO THE ROOM

Dear Miss Zaiss:

We have moved from a small apartment to a larger one, and, like a good many other people, I guess, find our rugs don't fit this new room at all. We were using two small rugs, a 6x9 and one a 3x5 feet 3 inches, in our old apartment. They are only Axminster rugs, Miss Zaiss, but really they are very pretty in color and pattern, just soft rose tones, with tan and a little green in a sort of Oriental-looking design. I just cannot afford to carpet the whole room new just now, and do not want to buy more small rugs to fill out because in a year or two I hope to get something else.

I thought perhaps you could help me a little; I don't know just how, but maybe you could see a better way to lay the rugs, I have to make the room look comfortable and right. I do not just like the way I have them, but they seem to cover better that way.

My curtains are voile and rose-red shantung for draperies, which tones very nicely with the rugs. They are all right for these windows and I would like to use them. Couch is green, and one chair is tapestry with rose and green and tan in it; another chair is rose and gold mixed material in a small square design. My furniture is rather old-fashioned mahogany, including a bookcase, long library table, an end table and a wood back chair with covered seat and wood arms. Please help me to use what I have to best advantage, and I thank you.

ORIGINAL PLAN

Each Room Requires Individual Treatment

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

AS MRS. S. suggests . . . there must be hundreds of homemakers who, day after moving day, discover discrepancies here, there and everywhere in furnishings that fit perfectly well in old quarters but refuse to adapt themselves to the new home. And this applies most frequently to rugs and curtains.

Mrs. S.'s problem leaves us but one course, and that is to make the best of what we have, since new floor covering cannot be purchased. Incidentally, if her rugs are pleasing in color and pattern, she need not apologize for them, but should enjoy their good points so long as she must retain them. And she is wise to refrain from buying additional rugs to piece out those she wishes soon to dispose of, for merely by rearrangement we can do much to help her long, narrow room until it can be given a thoroughly, suitable room-size rug or carpet.

A comparison of Mrs. S.'s floor plan with the diagram of rearrangement will illustrate a placement of furniture and rugs that would help greatly to equalize the bare spaces and give a better balance of upholstered and wood pieces.

If at all possible, we would have the floors finished in a soft, dark tone instead of the bright golden oak which is the floor finisher's inevitable choice. Small rugs on a light floor create a restless, spotty effect that is very bad from a decorative standpoint, and proves tiresome to live with. After toning down the floor we would then center the large rug, which is 6x9 feet in size, place the upholstered sofa on the long wall and use the library table in the window space, with an upholstered chair at either side. If the table is rather heavy and is pulled down at least 1½ feet from the windows it will shorten the apparent length of the room and cover much of the bare floor space. There will also be fabric curtains behind the table and the two cloth chairs at either side coming down close to the floor, with the edge of the large rug just beyond . . . an arrangement that should help greatly to disguise the inadequacy of the rugs.

The small rug may then go toward the entrance, and to break the bare spot at either side we might use a decorative screen at the left before the doorway, and place a low stool or hassock before the radio. A coffee table in front of the sofa, a small table and lamp to the left of the bookcase and pictures for the two walls are also suggested.

PLACING SCATTER RUGS

The photograph (which is taken from the new booklet) does not apply strictly to this problem, but is shown for the benefit of those who are using scatter rugs or small Orientals. It is very very easy to destroy the good effect of a room by a hit or miss catercornered use of small rugs on a polished floor. As contrasted with such a treatment, note the poise and the restfulness of the living room illustrated, where small rugs do not entirely cover the floor, yet they are so arranged as to give unity to the scheme.

In the placement of small rugs a good general rule is the following: Where furniture is so disposed as to give an effect of openness, it is usually best to keep the largest rug toward the center of the room, using smaller rugs at the ends and being sure to see that their edges retain the rectangular character of the floor.

Where the sofa is placed at right angles to the fireplace, however, or forms an important group, the arrangement is often better if the rugs are placed so as to make the line of division echo the placement of the sofa. Small rugs should never be thrown slantwise in front of chairs or angling between two doorways, or in irregular positions across the center of the room. When using them before important pieces of furniture, such as the desk, the fireplace, sofa or a large table before windows, place them straight, in positions that maintain an effect of unity.

In this connection it is well to remember that no small rug promises to stay put on a polished floor without some protective measure, and that often the edges of larger rugs give way to a careless step and cause one to trip or fall. This tendency can be prevented by the use of a specially treated cloth or rug anchor which may be cut to fit any rug and requires no fasteners. The material is fifty-four inches wide and has a dull green pebble finish that gives it a cushion-like tread, while the coated under surface of the cloth which goes next to the floor holds the rug down with a suction grip.

Reading Habits

"MY DAUGHTER loves to read, but my son won't read anything but baseball scores," a mother told me. "Oh, then, he is interested in sports! I am sure if you get him some books that deal with that vast subject he will read them greedily," I assured her.

If we want to cultivate or preserve reading habits in our children we must give them books that will interest them. Unless they are omnivorous readers, just any book will not appeal to them. But the book suited to their age, sex and special interest will get their ready attention. Children's interests change from year to year and sometimes from day to day, and we have to study these interests before purchasing books or recommending those that are to be taken from the public library. There are excellent lists of recommended books to help parents in their selections.

In case lists are not available and we have to depend entirely upon our own judgment, what added qualifications should we demand of a book before passing it on to our young ones? I think we ought to ask ourselves the following questions: Is the atmosphere of this book sound and wholesome? Is it written in good taste and style? Is the information it contains reliable? A book having all of these qualifications ought to prove educational and inspirational to the young one who receives it.

Those children are indeed fortunate who start the love of books and reading habits early. If we take time to read to the young ones when they are small and continue the reading circle during their growing years they will most likely have a deep fondness for these blessed companions. If in addition we discuss with them the books they are reading, as they grow older their reading will have an added allure.

What a joy books will be to our young ones throughout their whole lives! How much breadth of vision they will get from their reading! How much insight into human nature! What moral guidance and inspiration! How much vicarious adventure! And last but not least, is not reading one of the most pleasant pastimes?

There are many distractions in this busy age to draw children away from their books. But if we introduce them into this magic world early and spread our wonderful wares before them all through the years I feel confident they will learn to love their books and get a rich and varied education from them.

Removing Stains

STAINS can often be removed by the simplest means and it is always advisable to use these first. For instance, it is frequently possible to remove stains from heavy fabrics by tightly grasping the straws of the whiskbroom about two inches from the end and vigorously brushing the stain with the broom held in that position.

Rubbing with a wad of tissue paper will often effectually remove stains from finer materials. By using these methods first you are taking no chances on injuring the fabric.

PAY IT WITH COTTON

FIVE American automobile companies have been asked by Arkansas people to take bales of cotton as part payment on new motor cars. It's a good idea and we hope it works.

In Arkansas:

"I'd like to buy your new model, Mr. Bimley, but I'm short of cash. However, I'll give you 500 pounds of cotton as the down payment."

"That's a mighty attractive offer, Zeb, and here's what I'll do. I'll give you 500 pounds of automobile for your first bale. That'll about include the chassis. And you kin get the body top, spare tire and the rest of the equipment as your crops come in."

"That's a fair proposition, Mr. Bimley, but here's what I'm afraid of. Suppose I take the chassis for my one bale down payment and then this boll weevil gets in its work? I'd be riding around with a soap box for a special body. Guess I'd better wait till I pick a few more acres of cotton and then get the car complete."

In Virginia:

"It's been a satisfactory demonstration, Mr. Salesman, but I'm hard pressed right now. You can sell me this coupe however, if you'll take a few cases of tobacco leaf in trade."

"We don't like to do business that way, sir."

"I'll raise my offer then, Mr. Salesman. You give me possession of this car and I'll give you three cases of obacco and 1,500 coupons. The coupons are gilt-edge."

"I'd like to, sir, but you see I get my salesman's commission out of the first payment—and I don't chew."

"That's perfectly all right, Mr. Salesman. I'll have this tobacco shredded for you, throw in six reams of rice paper and you can roll your own cigarets. You can't lose."

In California:

"Times are pretty hard, Mr. Runkel, and though I'm sweet on this new roadster, I couldn't pay cash. But you write me out a bill of sale and I'll send you a truck load of grapes as first payment and keep up the instalments as my orange, lettuce and walnut crops come in."

"Sorry, sir, but I've got seven wine presses already loaded with grapes from first payments. I'd like to sell you this car, but I can't accept grapes."

"Don't take them as fodder for your wine presses then. You take these grapes as first payment and they'll soon be raisins if you keep them on interest. I'd sure like to drive away in this car. And say, do you think the man down at the filling station would give me five gallons of gasoline for a second-hand jack knife?"

In Chicago:

"Hey, bo, how about that pink sport model you got in the window?"

"It's $3,179.50, delivered."

"I'm short of change because the last safe I ripped was a dud. But pipe this: I'll slip you six barrels of real Cicero beer now, delivered right in your cellar, and five cases of Scotch every month till I get the car pair for. Whadayer say?"

"Well, it's like this, Mr. Bozo. I'm not a drinking man. I just like a little brandy with my coffee after dinner."

"O-ho, one o' them cordial fiends, hey? Listen: I'll deliver you a dozen cases of brandy and the same of chartreuse for that pink car in the window. And if you want it, I can get you some real benedictine."

"Mr. Bozo, if you can get me real benedictine in large quantities, I'd like to interest you in this lavender limousine, only $8,079 f. o. b. And you can drive it right out of the showroom."

A DISH A DAY

There are so many delicious varieties of apples coming into the market now that it is a temptation to the housewife to slip apples in one form or another into almost every menu. There as so many ways of baking them—with orange juice, with brown sugar, with cinnamon syrup, or with white sugar, nutmeg and dots of butter. Apples baked in cranberry jelly are a New England delicacy, without which roast duck is rarely admitted to the best tables. And fried apples will bring back memories of sausage cakes to anyone who spent his early days on a farm.

KAREN HOLLIS

We need hardly pay tribute, even in passing, to apple pie, for all over the world that is famed as a typically American dessert. I doubt, however, that even the most flaky and tender apple pie can vie in general appeal with the simplest and one of the most economical of New England desserts. Tart applesauce with hot, soft gingerbread is one of the very best reasons for the fame of New England.

Have you ever noticed how people who live in hotels or who usually dine in cafes relish these old homestead desserts? The next time an habitual diner-out is a guest at your home, try serving all distinctively homemade dishes and see what a hit they make. When you serve ice cream and dainty little cakes you are vying with professional chefs in their own field, but when you serve a simple, homey dessert, such as tart applesauce and hot gingerbread, you are giving your guests a treat, for these dishes can only be made successfully in small amounts and where they can be served within a short time after cooking.

Every one knows how to make apple sauce, but let me suggest that if the apples you are using are not very tart that you add a slice or two of lemon, including the rind, to the apples while coking. You may also have a favorite recipe for gingerbread, but if the method of mixing does not include scalding the shortening and molasses together, let me urge you to substitute the following directions, for this results in a soft, delicate-textured gingerbread that is particularly good.

SOFT GINGERBREAD

1 cup molasses
1-3 cup shortening
1½ teaspoons soda
1 egg
½ cup sour milk
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon allspice

Put the molasses and shortening in a saucepan and heat until just below the boiling point. Dark, rich whole molasses is best for this cake, although it can be made with the type that is molasses blended with corn syrup. Butter need not be used as shortening, as the use of lard or one of the vegetable-oil shortenings will result in a more tender cake.

Remove the molasses mixture from the stove when the scalding point is reached and stir in the soda, beating well. This will form light-colored froth. Beat the egg and add to sour milk. Sift the dry ingredients together three times. Add liquid and dry mixtures to the molasses alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Pour in shallow baking pans, having the batter from one to two inches thick, and bake in a moderate oven for about thirty-five minutes or until cake is firm and shrinks slightly from the edge of the pan.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

merce Lamont, chairman of the Cabinet Council, said this would be a fundamental of his organization's program. He was not prepared to say whether the idea would be suggested to private employes.

Hoover considers the situation to be statistically more terrifying than it actually may prove to be. It was explained at the White House that the 3,500,000 unemployed figure was based on census and labor department figures but that it must be remembered there usually are 1,000,000 persons unemployed in the United States in the process of changing jobs. These persons, it was added, cannot be considered as destitute of income. Rather, their income is temporarily interrupted.

Hoover is understood to feel that the gloom overshadowing the country today may be exaggerated. He concedes the urgency of the problem but it is pointed out foreign countries have unemployment problems twice as grave as ours and there should be no doubt regarding America's ability to handle her problem. The object of the work undertaken today was explained as prevention of individual suffering and the opinion was expressed that it should accomplish that end.

DEATH TOLL IN MINE BLAST GROWS

been rescued. Many escaped through lateral passageways to other pits.

The shafts run underground for miles. The mines stretch between here and Alsdorf, eight miles away. Rescue squads, working from various sides toward the shattered shaft, concentrated from all over the countryside to aid in the work of reaching the trapped men.

Thousands of relatives and friends of the injured and missing miners flocked to the heads of the pits, waiting in agony for news of their men. Women weeping hysterically were taken away. Many children moved about among the crowd, uncomprehending but frightened.

Blast Seen

The disaster occurred at 6:45 a. m. Its cause was not determined, but explosion of a dynamite depot in the Wilhelm mine was regarded as the most likely explanation.

The force of the explosion shook the ground like an earthquake. Flames shot from the pit, followed by clouds of smoke. Buildings near the head of the shattered pit tumbled down. Eleven of the dead were killed above ground, three in the technical office, which the explosion demolished.

The dynamite depot believed responsible for the disaster was located 300 feet under ground, yet the strength of the detonation shattered windows for blocks in all directions.

Rescue squads were organized at once among the men still on the surface. Others hurried from neighboring towns. One group came from Essen, another from Alsdorf, and others joined in the dangerous work.

Nearly all those rescued alive were brought to the surface through connections made with neighboring pits.

Kessell Rites To Be Held At Ryan Home Here

Services tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. Bessie Kessell, fraternal member and well known in this city who passed away Monday night will be conducted by two lodges tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from the Ryan Funeral home.

Mrs. Kessell had been ill for the past few months at the home of her daughter Mrs. Edna O'Rourke, 881 Sixth street where she passed away. Another daughter Mrs. Sylvia Osborn was here from Guthrie, Ok'a., at the time of her mother's death.

Mrs. Kessell had resided in this city for the past 19 years. In addition to the two daughters she leaves two sons of Los Angeles, James Kessell and William Tompkins. Deceased was 62 years of age, and was a native of Iowa.

Zephyr lodge of Rebekahs of which Mrs. Kessell was a past noble grand and treasurer will have charge of the services to be conducted from the Ryan funeral home and Neighbors of Woodcraft, of which she served as magician for several terms will conduct services at the Berkeley crematory where her remains will be taken.

Miramar chapter, Order of Eastern Star also claimed Mrs. Kessell as a member.

Father Will Seek Killer Of Daughter

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 21.—UP—Leo O'Loughlin, Denver detective, today left his sick bed in St. Joseph's hospital, where he successfully resisted an attempt upon his own life, to take part in the investigation of the murder of his ten-year old daughter, Leona.

Pale and worn, O'Loughlin, who was taken to the hospital five days ago suffering from the effects of eating powdered glass, went immediately to a mortuary to see the body of his little daughter, which was found in Berkeley Park lake after a search of three days.

"I idolized that child," the father said. "And now I have but one thing to live for and that is to avenge her death. I want to see justice done regardless of whose toes are trampled upon."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, 31, stepmother of Leona, who has been held in jail for investigation in connection with the slaying and the poisoning of her husband, moved to force police to a showdown.

Through her attorney, J. F. Schneider, she filed application for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ is returnable at 10 a. m. Friday. The court directed Mrs. O'Loughlin be held without bail pending the hearings.

WILL MARRY

John Williams, 29, and Martha Ball, 26, both of Richmond, this week in Sacramento filed declaration of intention to wed.

MISS SWANSON IN PLEA FOR DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—UP—One of screenland's few marriages into European nobility reached a definite break today when Gloria Swanson filed suit for divorce against the Marquis Henri De La Falaise De La Coudraye.

The complaint contained only the charge that the marquis had "wilfully and maliciously abandoned" her. The other paragraphs of the brief document outlined their marriage.

For more than a year there had been rumors of discord between the couple, but both made repeated denials.

On his last trip to Paris, the marquis was seen often with Constance Bennett, screen and stage actress. When he returned to the United States, Miss Swanson announced they would not live together. Since that time the marquis and Miss Bennett have been together much

Miss Swanson's complaint stated that she married the marquis in Paris in 1925 and lived with him four years, seven months and 21 days. She said the desertion occurred on September 10, 1929. The actress stated that there were no children nor community property. Miss Swanson formerly was the wife of Wallace Beery.

Miss Swanson's second husband was Herbert Somborn, agent and part owner of the Brown Derby, famous in Hollywood as a meeting place of the stars during dining hours

She has two children, a girl by Somborn and an adopted son.
